

About the author

N. Sriprada, studying in class VE of Sanghamitra school is a budding author who has written stories about a young girl who loved nature and about three naughty friends who eventually understand the importance of discipline in life. These books reflect the young writer's flair for English and her love for

